

P&A Magazine Interviews PCMI's President & CEO - Mark Nagelvoort

Nagelvoort shares about his history in the industry, where F&I is headed, and his company's success

Park Ridge, Illinois – August 20, 2019 – PCMI's President & CEO, Mark Nagelvoort, was recently interviewed by P&A Magazine about his industry background, PCMI's origin, and his plans for the company's future. Mark was thrilled at the opportunity to have his story featured in P&A and enjoyed talking about PCMI's passion and commitment to technology. He gave well-deserved credit to his team who is spread across three offices globally and work diligently to provide customers with confidence in PCMI's products and solutions.

P&A publishes interviews with industry leaders in every magazine, giving readers an inside look into the lives and minds of executives, along with valuable insight into their companies' practices and successes. PCMI team members are frequent attendees at several conferences each year, and one of their favorites to visit is P&A's Leadership Summit conference, which provides full access to a diverse selection of sessions, speakers, events, and even provides the opportunity to network and connect with other leaders who have been interviewed by the popular magazine as well as its readers.

Nagelvoort said, "I'm really pleased to have the opportunity to be interviewed by such an established magazine. I really stress how at PCMI we see ourselves as more than just a software provider because we don't believe in a "one-size-fits-all" solution. We really take the time, energy, and effort to customize our system in order to meet our clients' needs and understand their business. That is why our tagline is "Your Technology Partner."
